Development for Shipping and Senior Vice President of Cruise Operations; and MGEN Restituto Padilla, Jr., Executive Director for Corporate Public Policy, Risks and Sustainability of PTC Holdings, joined industry experts, government representatives, and other key stakeholders in pledging support for the Maritime Industry Development Plan 2028 at the first-ever Philippine Maritime Industry Summit held at the Manila Hotel last February 28.

The Summit highlighted the Maritime Industry Development Plan (MIDP) 2028 — formulated by the Maritime Industry Authority (MARINA) and Department of Transportation (DOTr) — that ensures the promotion and expansion of the Philippine merchant fleet, and the advancement of future-ready maritime human capital.

Philippine President Ferdinand R. Marcos Jr. graced the event and strongly echoed his administration's mission to ensure the continued growth of the country's maritime industry. "Given that the Philippines is a maritime nation, I believe that it is time for us to make the maritime industry once again a top priority. While we already hold a dominant position in the world of global shipping, I certainly believe that we can do more, especially here at home."

“

Today, we reiterate our commitment as a partner of the Government in its efforts to propel Philippine shipping," said Mr. Borromeo, representing FSA. "We wholeheartedly support and endorse the adoption of MARINA's MIDP. The FSA commends the government for providing this 10-year maritime agenda. In doing so, we not only see ourselves as a maritime nation, but we truly become one."

"On behalf of the Philippine Association of Maritime Training Centers, Inc., it is our honor to support the MIDP. We pledge our full commitment to providing our Global Maritime Professionals with quality and excellence in training by elevating the training standards of the Philippine Maritime Industry," added Ms. Avelino.

"Filipino seafarers are essential to the Japanese shipping industry. And so we sincerely and strongly hope that there will continue to be a steady supply of professional and well-trained Filipino seafarers to work alongside us," said Mr. Ikeda, according to a release from Malacañang.

New advisory committee launched to address major maritime issues impacting Filipino seafarers

Global leaders from organizations representing seafarers, shipowners, and other maritime employers signed a memorandum of understanding with the Philippines' Department of Migrant Workers on January 11 to form the International Advisory Committee on Global Maritime Affairs (IACGMA).

The IACGMA is composed of the European Community Shipowners' Associations (ECSA), the International Chamber of Shipping (ICS), the International Maritime Employers' Council (IMEC), and the International Transport Workers' Federation (ITF).

"The Philippine government through its Department of Migrant Workers (DMW) welcomes the participation of well-respected industry associations and leaders from the global shipping industry in developing our roadmap to a just transition as well as boosting the global competitiveness of Filipino seafarers across the globe," Migrant Workers Secretary Susan Ople said during the signing ceremony of DMW with its international partners.

The Secretary assured the IACGMA's international partners that other relevant government agencies in the Philippines such as the Department of Transportation and its attached agency, the Maritime Industry Authority (MARINA) have expressed support for the goals and vision of the newly-formed advisory body.

The formation of the IACGMA follows a meeting that took place last December 13, 2022, where shipping industry leaders met with Philippine President Ferdinand 'Bongbong' Marcos Jr., as part of his foreign policy tour in Brussels, Belgium. During the meeting, President Marcos recommended the establishment of a new advisory board to be made up of employers, shipowners, unions, and the International Labour Organisation (ILO) to give expert advice on major maritime issues affecting Filipino seafarers.

The creation of the IACGMA solidifies the shipping industry and the Philippine government's commitment to ensuring the welfare of its seafarers and finding solutions to the challenges ahead.

Key aims of the IACGMA include contributing to the provision of appropriate training to the country's seafarers in compliance with the Standards of Training, Certification, and Watchkeeping (STCW) Convention. The IACGMA will also work to address concerns regarding ambulance chasing and unfair labor practices and on issues related to the employability of Filipino seafarers overseas; all key areas of discussion during the group's December meeting.

International Chamber of Shipping Secretary General Guy Platten said, "It is excellent that the IACGMA has been formed so swiftly following the industry's meeting with President Marcos in December 2022. It signifies the strength of commitment from the industry and the Philippines to ensuring safety and protection for Filipino seafarers, who make up a huge 14% of the global seafarer workforce. The ICS looks forward to collaborating with ECSA, IMEC, ITF, and the Philippines Government to tackle the challenges ahead for our workforce, and to ensure a bright future for our seafarers."

PTC partners with One Earth One Ocean to help clean Oriental Mindoro oil spill

PTC Shipmanagement, in cooperation with One Earth One Ocean (OEEO), donated 700 kilos of oil-absorbent wool to the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) to help clean an oil spill that recently affected Oriental Mindoro.

The donation was turned over by Capt. Ronald SJ Enrile, Senior Vice President for PTC Shipmanagement and Head of Talent Acquisition Group together with Capt. Florencio Jampil, Director for Business Development for Crewing and Shipmanagement, and Daniel Scheler, One Earth One Ocean (OEEO) Philippines Project Manager, last March 14 to Mr. Meynardo Axalan, Administrator of the Municipality of Pola, Province of Oriental Mindoro.

The oil-absorbent wool PURE, developed by DEUREX, is an environmentally friendly hydrophobic material that can absorb spilled oil from the water.

Daniel Scheler of OEEO demonstrates the use of the oil-absorbent wool.

The initiative is made possible through the collaboration of PTC CEO Gerardo Borromeo and DENR Secretary Maria Antonia Yulo-Loyzaga and will benefit 11 barangays that were severely affected by an oil spill off the coast of Pola town. The eco-friendly materials will help clean the oil slick which has now spread in the coastal areas of Pola and its neighboring communities.

Together with volunteers from the eleven barangays, Mr. Scheler, assisted by Capt. Enrile and Capt. Jampil conducted a short lecture and demonstrated how to use the oil-absorbent wool. This type of material does not absorb water and always floats on the surface even when on its full oil absorption capacity.

“A few hundred meters from the coastal area of Pola we saw an oil slick moving closer to the shorelines, so we prepared two boats and mobilized the volunteers who were trained. Together with Mr. Scheler, we made use of the oil-absorbent wool on the water surface. The material is effective as we were able to initially remove 300 meters of the oil slick, leaving no traces at all. The otton wool can also be used repeatedly,” said Capt. Jampil.

The materials were left in the care of Pola LGU for distribution to the affected barangays as residents commit to continue working together in restoring their town's marine ecosystem.

Envisioning a plastic-free Balayan with PTC and Dewaste Solutions

Dewaste Solutions and PTC signed a Memorandum of Agreement last April 19, 2023, to launch the Plastic-free Movement in Balayan, Batangas. The Plastic-free Movement aims to divert plastic waste that would otherwise end up in the marine environment and provide livelihood opportunities to coastal communities by giving new life to discarded plastic. It is estimated that up to 10 tons of plastic waste per month will be diverted from the partner community in Balayan, Batangas through this project. Around 300 households will also benefit from this program as it provides a means of livelihood to informal waste collectors and their families.

Capt. Ronald Enrile, Head of the Talent Acquisition Group, represented PTC at the signing while Dewaste Solutions was represented by its co-founder Mr. Juvien Galano. Also present were Hector Manuel Jon C Brizuela, Manager of the PTC Pipeline Engagement Program, and Ms. Bernadette Ogot, co-founder of Dewaste Solutions, as witnesses to the event.

The Plastic-free Movement is PTC's commitment to supporting seafarers and coastal communities by alleviating marine plastic waste, especially in the most critical marine biodiversity areas in the country. This is also in support of SDG 14: Life Below Water and SDG 11: Making Cities Safe and Sustainable.

PTC Sea Mariners clean up the shores of Iloilo

Over 150 volunteers from five PTC Sea Mariners ships in Iloilo took part in the Coastal Cleanup Brigade last February 24 on the shores of Barangay Calaparan, Arevalo, Iloilo.

The participating ships included JB Lacson Foundation Maritime University (JBLFMU), Western Institute of Technology (WIT), St. Therese College (STC), and PHINMA University Inc. (UI). They were joined by volunteers from Brgy. Calaparan, the City Disaster Risk Reduction Management Office (CDRRMO), Mcdonald's Iloilo, and the City Environment and Natural Resources Office (CENRO).

The morning began with Barangay Head Cecilia Nava giving a brief background of the coastal area followed by a safety briefing from Ms. Grace Salvi Hofileña, Supervising Environmental Management Specialist from CENRO.

The activity saw the commitment of the youth to the marine environment as they collected more than one sack of trash each. CENRO then hauled the bags of trash to the designated collection area to be weighed. A total of 1,595 kgs. of garbage was collected during the event, representing the average daily waste produced by 1,400 individuals. This is based on the 2021 Waste Analysis Characterization Survey which estimates that every person in Iloilo generates an average of 1.08 kg of waste per day.

"I know that a lot of you will become seafarers in the future and I am very hopeful that once you become seafarers, you will continue your commitment to taking care of our oceans," said Ms. Beng Cristobal, Chief Operating Officer of the PTC Shipping Cluster as she addressed the Sea Mariners. "When you board ships in the future, you will be taught about proper waste management at sea which I hope you will take to heart in order to protect our oceans and our environment."

Sea Mariners from the STC ship also shared how they do their share to help lessen plastic pollution by making ecobricks which they use to create stools, plant boxes, and other items. A learning session on Marine Preservation was also conducted for the Iloilo ships by Engr. Noel Hechanova, Environmental Planner and former Iloilo City Environmental Management Specialist.

PTC-CSJ and WWF implement 2023 ESD Program

PTC-CSJ and WWF-Philippines continued to implement the Education for Sustainable Development (ESD) Program in 2023 as part of their annual partnership. The ESD 2023 Program focused on Water, Sanitation, and Hygiene as the overall theme which supports the Department of Education's WINS (Water, Sanitation, and Hygiene in Schools) Program. The focus on water was intended to emphasize its links to climate change and biodiversity degradation.

In partnership with DepEd-Muntinlupa, Teachers' Training was conducted on March 15 to 16 with almost 100 new teachers from 20 public elementary schools. As part of the workshop, the teachers presented how environmental topics can be integrated into various Subjects.

The WWF team also conducted ESD sessions with Grades 5 and 6 learners from PTC-CSJ's 12 partner Schools in Muntinlupa last March 21-23 and March 28-30. The first session focused on Water and Sanitation, while the culminating session focused on Hygiene.

The final activity of ESD 2023 was a Demo Teaching by 12 selected teachers from the 12 partner Schools held last April 25-28. The demo teachers shared how they were able to integrate lessons on water, sanitation, and hygiene in their respective curricular subjects and classroom activities.

PTC RISE Program & PHILCAMSAT conduct Disaster Preparedness Training for LGUs

The PTC RISE Team, in collaboration with PHILCAMSAT, successfully facilitated the RISE Disaster Preparedness and Response Training for its partner Local Government Units (LGUs) from February 6 to 10.

11 participants from the Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Offices (DRRMOs) from four pilot LGU partners were educated and capacitated on different disaster preparedness topics designed to help them better understand the nature of their professions.

The training program kicked off with a virtual orientation last February 3 led by PHILCAMSAT representatives Ms. Cath Montoya and Mr. Karlo Andanar. This was followed by a five-day training series consisting of a three-day virtual lecture and two-days of actual exercises in PHILCAMSAT's multi-accredited training facility, The MAST, in Maragondon, Cavite.

The RISE Disaster Preparedness and Response Training is a collaboration between RISE Program and PHILCAMSAT and serves as a pilot training program for LGUs and their Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Office (DRRMO).

FMSS brings unique brand of strategic services to SSOW 2023

FMSS, represented by its General Manager Jennifer Chua, took part in the Shared Services & Outsourcing Week 2023 (SSOW), the largest and longest-running shared services & outsourcing event which took place from March 20 to 23 in Orlando, Florida.

"Having our base of operations at a premier IT-BPM hub allows FMSS to tap into a very wide pool of professional talent and knowledge workers and mobilize them across diverse industries. SSOW 2023 came as a sort of baptism of fire for FMSS as we dive into this huge global outsourcing/shared services industry that provides strategic support to international enterprises and organizations," said Ms. Chua.

"As Shared Services and Business Process Outsourcing evolve into Global Business Services (GBS), FMSS is confident in its position to address the needs of global players, including companies outside of the shipping sector. Our high growth potential shall be driven, as always, by our commitment to service excellence."

The 2023 agenda of the conference focused on four key areas: scope expansion, continuous improvement, talent management, and leveraging advanced technology and tools to improve processes and drive enterprise-wide transformation. Sessions provided tangible takeaways to help companies at all levels of maturity achieve their goals and inspire "Transformation in the Wake of Disruption."
